CODE CLINIC

Every code in your Codebook was thoroughly tested at the time the book was printed. Sometimes, though, different versions of a game are discovered—and there are other reasons why codes don't work. When we learn of a problem code (from YOU!), we test it, and then we tell you the results in this column. Problem codes are taken out of the Codebook as we go.

So grab a pencil and mark the following changes in your Codebook, so you won't run into these by accident!

Game	Code	Update Status
Contra III — The Alien Wars™	7 Start with 5 bombs on each life—top -view levels	Code should be D963- 6708 + D9CE-6D0F!
Earth Defense Force™	1 thru 5 Start at stage ____	Sound goes away at boss of each stage!
Final Fantasy II™	4 Magic power doesn't go down	Only in battles, doesn't work for twins!

The world's favorite board game is now on video! The MONO codes below have several effects on the play of the game. Code 1 allows you to buy property, and land on other players' properties—and do some other things too numerous to mention—for free. Codes 10 thru 15 let you throw doubles continually. But watch out! If you throw 3 doubles in a row you go to jail. So turn the effects switch off after the second double to keep yourself out of the slammer. (Also turn it off when the computer's rolling the dice.)

NHLPA Hockey '93™ Game

A great game with great graphics, smooth play, great action and great fighting scenes. HOC93 makes penalties last only a minute, so you can get back to full strength to counter your opponent's power plays. Codes 6 thru 13 may only be used with the 10-minute period option. The 5- and 20-minute period options work normally.

On the Ball™ Game

You have to be on the stick to beat On the Ball™—it's hard! You rotate the screen to roll your marble into the goal within the allotted time, which never seems to be enough. So try BALL Code 7 and stop the timer. Have a ball with Code 8, which makes minus blocks and bricks worth nothing. Keep in mind that Code 8 cannot be combined with Codes 9 to 35, and Code 36 cannot be combined with Codes 37 to 54.

Prince of Persia™ Game

This popular adventure features smooth motion and graphics. Give your enemies not much to live for with PRINCE Code 14 (all enemies have 1 health point), while fortifying yourself with 15 health points by using Code 9. Experts can try giving the enemies 10 health points with Code 19. Note that for Codes 10 thru 13, "non-fatal" falls and injuries are those that would take off health points but not necessarily kill you immediately (except if your health points were very low).

Push-Over™ Game

This is an interesting and tough challenge—keep out of reach of children. You can explore the bizillion levels to your heart's delight with PUSH Codes 4 thru 101. Time tends to run out awfully fast, so try Code 1 and you can finish a level even if time does fly. Undo a push without losing tokens with Code 2. When the level select codes are used, you begin on the selected level and start with all cash bundles previously discovered. Hitting reset does not clear the cash bundles that have been found (though entering an incorrect code does).

Road Riot 4WD™ Game

You can control the length of the races with these RIOT codes. The beginner track is normally 1 lap shorter than the rest. When using Code 1, the beginner track is 0 laps, and the race ends right away. If there are 5 or more laps left, the graphics on the screen are weird. Code 7 makes the beginner track have the same number of laps as the rest of the races.
